

Bobbin and the Wobble Bridge

Five Stories About Big Feelings

Five gentle read-aloud stories about a small fox called Bobbin and her friends, exploring worry, frustration, sadness, jealousy and courage. Read one story at a time.

Before reading

Look at the cover. How do you think Bobbin feels about the bridge? How can you tell?

While reading

1. The Wobble Bridge: Bobbin had "frogs in her tummy". Where do you feel worry in your body?
2. A Kite Called Flap: Bobbin's tail went THUMP. What do you do when you feel cross?
3. The Day Flap Flew Away: Moss just sat close to Bobbin. How can we help a friend who is sad?

After reading

1. Dabble's Blue Marble: what helped Bobbin's "squished" feeling get smaller?
2. The Lantern Carrier: how did Bobbin help Tilly be brave?
3. Which story is most like a day you have had?

The big idea

One toe, then the next.

When something feels too big, break it into one small step at a time, just like Bobbin on the bridge.

Try this together

A brave pebble. Find a smooth pebble together, like Bobbin's. When feelings get big, hold it and take one slow breath, then another.

Words to talk about

worried · cross · sad · jealous · brave · friend
